Student Learning Outcomes

• Identify the key components of the social change model of leadership
• Construct a personal leadership philosophy based on leadership theories and experiential learning
• Utilize leadership skills to create a leadership plan or address a social issue and assess effectiveness through reflection

Description

Explores concepts of leadership theory with direct applications for leading organizations and creating positive social change. The intent is to provide students with a foundational understanding of the knowledge and skills needed to be an effective leader. This course utilizes experiential activities and group projects as a primary method for applying theories and concepts to the everyday practice of leadership. In this course, leadership is understood primarily as a function of personal development with the intention to create transformational change in one’s community.

Method(s) of Evaluation

Methods of Evaluation may include but are not limited to the following:

Small group activities/presentations
Class discussion and participation
Short answer essays
Application exercises
Written reflection assignments
Research projects

Method(s) of Instruction

Methods of Instruction may include but are not limited to the following:

Collaborative learning: Instructor divides the class into small groups, each of which plans a short lesson based on the readings given each week
Group presentation: Instructor assigns groups to choose a concept, topic, current event, or organization to analyze, using a leadership framework or model
Hands-on activities: Instructor leads a variety of team building activities, in order for students to have in-class experiences to draw on and apply skills and knowledge
In-class writing: Instructor assigns short reflection assignments for students to analyze their knowledge, experiences, and skills, based on readings, activities, or discussions.

Instructor-facilitated discussion: Instructor guides students to work in groups to discuss leadership theories and concepts. Instructor will provide topics and current events for students to apply leadership concepts and knowledge, along with bringing their personal experiences, backgrounds, and knowledge into the conversations.

Representative Text(s) and Other Materials

Although these texts are older than the suggested “5 years or newer” standard, they remain seminal texts in this area of study.

Types and/or Examples of Required Reading, Writing, and Outside of Class Assignments

a. Sample reading/writing assignment: Read Chapter 4 from Exploring Leadership and write a reflection on what strengths and weaknesses you bring as a leader. Your reflection must include the application of leadership theory to your practice.

b. Sample out-of-class assignment: Write a personal leadership philosophy paper that incorporates leadership theories and concepts and apply it to your own practice as an emerging leader.

c. Sample critical thinking assignment: Develop a Leadership Action Plan for an organization or on social issues. This will culminate in a group written paper along with an in-class presentation on how to create positive social change in an organization or social movement.
