Student Learning Outcomes
- Compare diverse religious traditions by explaining how they influence contemporary life and thought in different social, political and cultural circumstances around the globe.
- Contrast differing religious attitudes toward Western civilization and civil rights movements.
- Explain the relationship between religion, science, and the arts and how they intersect.
- Synthesize critical thinking, imaginative, cooperative and empathetic abilities as whole persons in order to contextualize knowledge and make meaning.

Description

Interdisciplinary course that explores how religions shape our understanding of diverse topics, such as human rights, war, peace, globalization, and science, as well as music, sport, humor, film, and the visual arts. Course eschews a focus on a specific tradition (e.g., Western or Eastern religions), and instead examines the inter-relationship between religion and human meaning creation through the specific lenses of ethics, aesthetics, and politics. As an honors course, it is a full seminar with advanced teaching methods focusing on major writing, reading, and research assignments, student class presentations, group discussions and interactions.

Course Objectives

The student will be able to:

a. Engage in critical, creative, and independent thinking
b. Express curiosity about the intersection of religion and culture
c. Broader perspectives on how religious thought influences topics such as human rights, war, peace, globalization, etc.
d. Apply critical approaches to the analysis of various modes of cultural production in relation to various religious practices and understanding

e. Explain the relationship between religion, art, and social organization in both Western and non-Western contexts
f. Use diverse religious practices and cultural traditions as a framework for a more complex understanding of the contemporary world
g. Analyze cultural production as both instruments of social control and ideological change
h. Develop the habit of learning and responding to new ideas and challenges
i. Think through moral and ethical problems and examine one’s own assumptions
